Our vision is to be Britain's best loved insurer, so throughout our 170-year history we have always put our people and our customers at the heart of everything we do, and for over 30 years we have proudly supported the Royal College of Nursing (RCN) and its members, so to be a part of the NHS Parliamentary Awards is a true honour.

"We're extremely proud to be sponsoring this year's NHS Parliamentary Awards. Since its foundation in 1948, the NHS has always worked incredibly hard to look after and protect the millions of us who need their help each and every year. At the heart of the NHS is its people and we are therefore delighted to be able to celebrate the rising stars of the NHS – those who among younger members of staff and volunteers are helping to shape the NHS for generations to come". The House magazine is “Parliament’s own” publication, sent out to every Member of Parliament and Peer. Totally impartial and answerable to a cross-party editorial board, The House carries exclusive high profile interviews and articles from Parliamentarians and policy information. It’s very much the in-house publication for Parliament and, as such, is a hugely effective way to target MPs & Peers, removing any editorial agenda that might exist in other political publications.
